

This image came from Adobe Firefly. I used it as it is not one I have heard much buzz about. It was right on with expectations I had, being a nice image that depicts the basic objects I described yet lacking a sense of cohesiveness and composition. It's also a bit grainy and cartoony in its hyper-realism but not stylized enough that it has its own character. It falls a bit flat overall I feel. I am also new to prompting AI and I understand that is everything of course. Practice forming statements will help to dial in the results. This image I chose was much better than the first four renders as I kept tweaking and using the reference photo modifier to match closer to a certain style.